Manufacturing Than For Almost A Year Past--

Maryland's Vote In Doubt Yet.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Nov. 6.—One of the sequels to Tuesday's election in this city based upon accurate dispatches from all their sub-agencies.

Their Report
The report states that there is a sentiment in business circles that shows a decided improvement since election and many large contracts have been let in different parts of the country already with orders coming in.

Increase Working Force
Many mills in different parts of the country that have been running on half time with reduced forces are now taking on new men as fast as possible and increasing their capacity. There is a better demand for labor.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Reports from industrial circles are to the effect that within the next thirty days all the factories and mills in the immediate vicinity of Chicago will be running full force. Already some ten thousand workmen have been put at work and by Monday this number will be doubled.

Some Speculation
New York, Nov. 6.—There was an outburst of speculation in the stock market this morning which swept prices to a higher level in a most sensational manner.

Due to Taft
The speech of Judge Taft announcing that his policy would be one of non-interference with honest corporations was appropriated as a motive for the influx of buying orders.

Maryland Split
Baltimore, Md., Nov. 6.—The indications today are that the vote of Maryland will be divided between Taft and Bryan. Bryan will have six and Taft one vote. The vote in certain counties due to imperfect ballots was thrown out which would otherwise have given the state to Taft.

Missouri for Taft
St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 6.—It is now certain that Taft will have the Missouri electoral vote although the vote is not completed and the legislature is in doubt, both sides claiming it.

FRANK BEEDLE IS TAKEN AT SPARTA

Sheriff-Elect Chisholm Is On His Way
Thither to Get Man Wanted in Deloit for Burglary.

Chief of Police H. G. Schell of Deloit, who was elected sheriff of Rock county by a plurality of nearly 5,000 last Tuesday, was in Janesville this morning en-route for Sparta, where he expects to take charge of Frank Beedle, wanted in the Line City on a burglary charge. Beedle and an accomplice are alleged to have broken into a trunk in the room occupied by Margaret Curry and her sister at Kate Smith's boardinghouse, on the night of Oct. 30, and to have carried away $105 which the girls had saved from their wages at the knitting factory. The two individuals had stopped at the boardinghouse during the day preceding the burglary and from certain information regarding them which he was able to obtain, Chief Schell had reason to believe that one of the pair would head for Sparta. He therefore communicated with the head of the police department in that city, asking him to be on the lookout, and last night a message came from Sparta stating that Beedle had been taken into custody.

MANY SCHOOLS ASK AID FROM STATE

Sixty Per Cent in First District of County to Take Advantage of New Law.

Over sixty per cent of the rural schools in the first superintendent's district in Rock county have applied for state aid under the law passed by the last legislature. The law provides that any district is entitled to $500 special aid for three years providing it complies with certain regulations. These regulations are as follows: School buildings and grounds must be kept in proper condition, a proper ventilating and heating plant must be provided and an efficient teacher. Applications are made by the affidavit of the board of the superintendent and after inspection by the state inspector or the superintendent, the school is recommended for state aid. The law has made a big difference in the equipment of schools in this county. Over fifty schools in the first district alone have applied for aid after complying with the requirements and some districts have spent in the neighborhood of $200 to comply with the regulations of the law.

After divers howls Tommy was persuaded to surrender $3, though Mr. Meyer claimed there was $10 in the cash register. The $3 was divided between the waitresses, Henry Hong, the day cook, claiming that the proprietor owes him $1.47.

Nearly $15,000 in cash prizes and hundreds of medals will be distributed among the successful exhibitors.

Among the noted exhibitors are Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, Henry C. Fick of Pittsburgh, and Samuel Gutermeyr and H. McK. Twombly of New York.

PIERCE MAY GO TO TEXAS FOR TRIAL ON INDICTMENT

Grand Jury Returned Indictment Against Him Nearly Two Years Ago.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Austin, Texas, Nov. 6.—The Attorney General's office hopes the report will prove true that Henry Clay Pierce, chairman of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, will voluntarily come to Texas next week to stand trial on the long-pending indictment against him. It will mark the beginning of the end of a case that has cost the state of Texas a vast amount of time and money. Every effort will be put forth to try the case without unnecessary delay. It will be called before Judge Callahan of the Fifty-third district court, but it is believed an effort will be made to get a change of venue.

The troubles between the state of Texas and the Waters-Pierce oil company date back nearly a decade, but the charge against H. Clay Pierce on which he is to be placed on trial dates back to two years ago this month. It was in November, 1901, that the Travis county grand jury turned an indictment against Mr. Pierce charging him with false swearing. The indictment charges that Pierce, on May 31, 1900, made an affidavit that the Waters-Pierce Oil company had not entered into any agreement or understanding with any corporation, partnership, firm, or individual to reduce the price of any article or commodity. It charges that at the time Pierce made the affidavit he knew that the company had entered into an agreement with the Standard Oil company, John D. Rockefeller, John D. Archbold, H. H. Rogers and others to control the price of oil in Texas, and that the Standard Oil company had acquired a controlling interest in the Waters-Pierce company.

The vigorous fight made by Mr. Pierce to prevent extradition to this state to stand trial is familiar to all newspaper readers. His last recourse was exhausted two weeks ago when the Supreme court of the United States denied his motion for a rehearing and sustained the lower court's decision that Mr. Pierce must stand trial before the Texas courts.

HEAVY VOTE ON THE

Illinois Polls More Votes on This Question Than on Any

Heavy majorities were rolled up in its favor in the river counties. It is estimated that the proposition was carried by 75,000 more than all votes cast at the election.

CALE CASE JURY WILL DISAGREE?
THAT WAS THE OUTLOOK AT
3:30 THIS AFTERNOON

Without Any Visible Result—District
Attorney's Closing Plea Given
This Morning.

Late yesterday afternoon the taking of evidence in the criminal action of the State vs. John Cale was concluded and District Attorney J. M. Fisher made a closing plea to the jury for conviction. Attorney Charles Pierce, in a vigorous argument for the defendant, reiterated his charges that the officers were engaged in an effort to exert undue pressure on the defendant, and railroad him to the penitentiary. The district attorney interrupted one of his assertions with the exclamation: "Thank a lie!" and Attorney Pierce paused to assume a greatly injured air and remind the court that a great breach of etiquette had been committed.

"Trade of Villagers"
In the rebuttal this morning the district attorney took occasion to say that officers could hardly be blamed for losing their tempers after the tirade of vilification and abuse which had been hurled against them by the counsel for the defendant. He branded as "manufactured testimony" the conversation which William Cale claimed to have had with Herman Peschke, the victim of the hold-up, on the train from Juneau to Janesville, election night; insisted that only kind and courteous treatment had been accorded Cale during his sojourn at the county jail; characterized as purely mythical the alleged movements of a mysterious individual called "Milwaukee Harry" and another unknown "dubbed 'Saint Paul'"; wearing a sweater and a skinned nose, who had figured in the defense's allusions; ridiculed the attempt to make it appear that Cale loitered about the city until 9:30 the morning of Oct. 10; asked the jury to pass judgment for itself on the appearance of Officer John Brown in the role of a witness for the defense; agreed with the defendant's attorney that anyone most sympathetic with an aged father who has served three terms aggregating 12 years in the state penitentiary, but reminded the jurors that the public welfare was at stake and that sympathetic considerations must not enter into the question. Judge Philad charged the jury about half-past ten o'clock, admonishing his hearers that the question of Cale's guilt or innocence of the charge of stealing certain property from Herman Peschke during the early morning of Oct. 10 must be determined on the evidence and not on the statements of attorneys; also that the prison record of the accused was not to count in weighing the testimony.

Personnel of Jury
The jury is composed of Charles Snyder, F. J. Schmidt, Joseph E. Hill, John Kotchepaw, Charles E. Hill, Leslie D. Barker, W. H. Taylor, A. L. Wilcox, A. Smith, Henry Tall, Charles B. Conrad, and George Goldsmith.

The jurors began their deliberations behind closed doors at 10:30 and at half-past three o'clock this afternoon had returned no verdict. Some of those who have been following the case predict a disagreement.

SAMUEL C. COSGROVE, REPUBLICAN NOMINEE FOR GOVERNOR OF WASHINGTON.

We now offer to the public a new pattern, the "Madam Jumel" produced in a complete line of knives, forks, spoons and fancy pieces. This design is thoroughly Colonial in the simplicity of its lines. its ornamentation suggesting the late 18th century school of French Neo-Classicism.

This pattern is distinctly novel having been introduced to the public only this fall. It is extra heavy in weight of Sterling Silver and very serviceable.

THE BUSINESS

on earth of the genuine Round Oak Heating Stove is to make warmth; therefore, it is not covered with mica doors and nickel plate—it is a plain black stove, and yet it is beautiful, just the same as a mission chair or table is beautiful.

Of course, it has nickel foot rails and name plate, also an artistic urn, but its ability to make warmth and comfort with any kind of fuel, to hold fire all night, to do its work just as you think a stove ought to do it, is what gives it the great reputation and sale it enjoys.

Most heating stoves do not perform that way.

The Round Oak does do it—it is guaranteed to do it.

You are not permitted to take any chance.

The genuine has the name "Round Oak" on the leg.

Better look for it—there are over 400 imitations.

"Every Round Oak Stove, Fritz, after being stamped O. K. by the inspectors, is run into this room and from here it goes to the great storage warehouse, ready for the day of shipment."

OUR FOUR YEAR QUEENS.

MRS. JAMES MONROE MISTRESS OF THE WHITE HOUSE, 1817-1825.

When Mrs. Monroe took charge of the White house she was fortunate in having an entirely new home, for it will be remembered that the rebuilding of the executive mansion was finished that year and was given its first coat of white paint, after which it was known as the White house. It was refurbished throughout with mahogany especially imported from London and Paris.

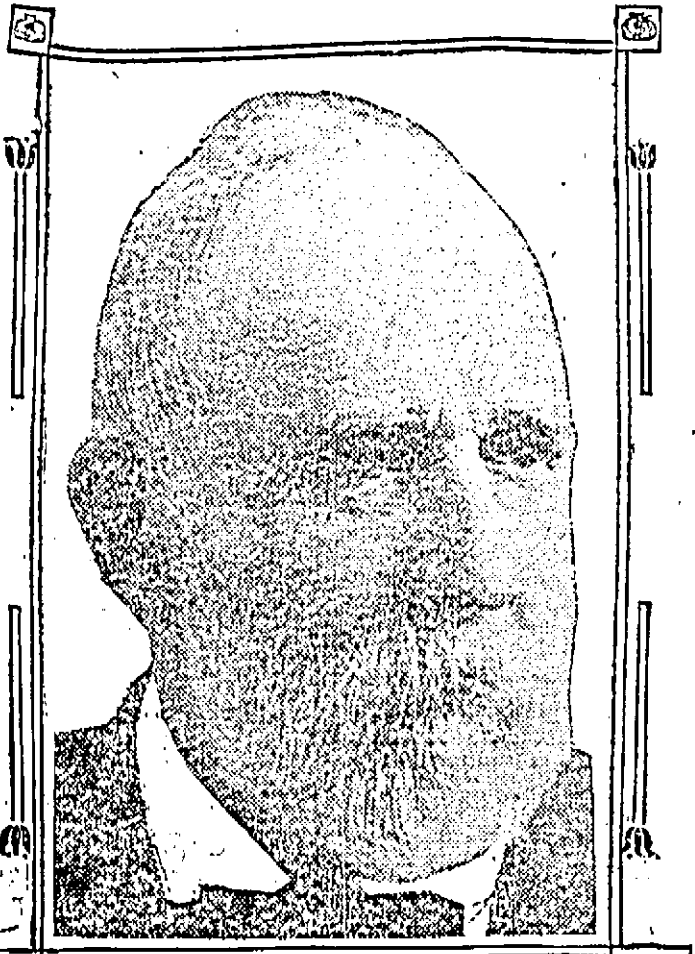

The Monroes will be remembered for their informality, and a news item from a paper of current date portrays this very clearly:

"The secretaries, senators, foreign ministers, consuls, auditors, accountants, officers of the navy and army of every grade, farmers, merchants, sailors, prelates, lawyers, judges, millionaires and nothingarians—all with their wives and some with their gawky offspring—crowded to the president's house every Wednesday evening, some in shoes, most in boots, and many in spurs; some snuffing, others chewing, and many longing for their cigars and whiskey punch left at home; some with powdered heads, some frizzled and oiled, some whose heads a comb has never touched, half hid by dirty curls, reaching far above their ears, as stiff as pasteboard."

Mrs. Monroe was a stately, polished woman, well trained to her position by her long experience as an ambassador's wife, but she was not strong physically and her retiring nature left a chilly impression. She was never popular like Betty Madison, who loved company, enjoyed life and had a healthy interest in all that happened about her.

Mrs. Monroe did her duty by her position and gave society what it expected, but she did not really care for it, and so it only respected her. She longed for the quiet of her Virginia home and the company of her husband who for so many years had been in public life.

FREDERICK WEYERHAUSER, THE ONLY BILLIONAIRE IN THE WORLD

St. Paul, Minn.—Frederick Weyerhaeuser is richer than John D. Rockefeller, is the only living billionaire in the world, and is the timber king of America. This modest though aged financier is comparatively little known although he owns 32,000,000 acres of timber land in the state of Washington alone. He has thousands of partners, but none know his relations with the others.

Mr. Weyerhaeuser has attracted considerable attention of late by his optimistic view of the situation on the supply of lumber. When seen at his home in St. Paul today he was asked regarding these statements, and some what startled your correspondent by the first sentence he uttered.

"I have been in the lumber business for 52 years," he said, continuing to tell how he had begun lumbering at La Crosse, Wis., on the Black river. "At that time," he said, "people were saying that the lumber men were cutting down the timber so fast that the supply would soon be exhausted."

"We took 40,000,000 feet a year out of the Black river country, and later increased it to 200,000,000 feet," said

Mr. Weyerhaeuser, "and we are still taking logs there. At that time they said we did not have timber enough to last 10 years."

Asked about the best way to conserve the forests, Mr. Weyerhaeuser said the main thing was to prevent fires.

"There has been much timber burned in Minnesota and Wisconsin in the last year and a great deal within the last eight weeks. The only way to prevent fires is to cut out the standing timber. The state should look after the prevention of fires and the reforestation of cut over or burned over lands. It takes 200 years to raise full grown pine trees, and the owners of pine lands are taxed on the land and taxed on the timber too often. We have paid as high as $100 to $200 taxes on 40-acre tracts. The taxes are governed largely by local people."

Mr. Weyerhaeuser said his company paid school taxes in one district where there were only two pupils to attend the public schools. They had to build a school and hire a teacher.

Asked as to the future supply of timber in this country he said that there was an immense stock of timber in the far west. That is where it would come from in the future.

GIVES UP TO DETROIT POLICE.

Man Says He Is Wanted In Oklahoma for Killing.

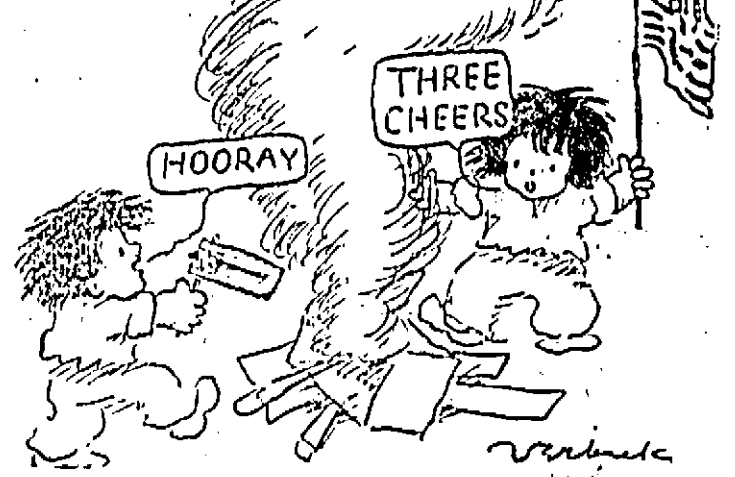

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 6.—A westerner giving the name of Robert Taylor surrendered himself at detective headquarters here Thursday, saying that he was wanted at Tahlequah, Okla., on the charge of killing Robert Ivons a week before last Thanksgiving. Taylor, who is one-quarter Cherokee, said he killed Ivons in self-defense.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 6.—Robert Ivons was shot and killed at Cookson, Okla., November 23, 1907, by Robert Taylor over a drink of whiskey. Cookson is 20 miles south of Tahlequah. Ivons was a prominent citizen of the Cherokee nation, while Taylor was considered a dangerous man, having served a term in the penitentiary.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Fair tonight and Saturday, slightly cooler Saturday.

A LEADER NEEDED

"The country badly needs an opposition party. It is not a normal or wholesome thing that one political party should have in four successive elections such stupendous majorities as those which have been obtained by the republican party. It is not healthy that the nation should lack the check and balance of a strong opposition party."

"Mr. Roosevelt says that the democrats have been beaten to a frazzle. Well, it is not the best thing in the world that the opposition party should be in a frazzled condition."

"But in order to have a strong opposition party, that party must have a strong leadership. If the democratic party is to survive this great defeat and be reorganized into a powerful effective political force, then it must develop a leader of the quality of Grover Cleveland. Mr. Bryan is, of course, now impossible. Another candidacy on his part for the presidency would be a continental joke. He can continue to be a popular orator on the stump, an entertaining lecturer upon the platform, and perhaps a spokesman in the United States senate, but he never again can lead his party in a presidential campaign."

"Is there, however, anyone else in the whole sweep of the country who peers above the horizon as one competent to reorganize this frazzled party and to create out of its demoralized elements an effective proposition?"

This sensible suggestion, from the Wall Street Journal, expresses a truth which has become more and more apparent at the close of every national contest since Bryan gained control of the democratic party.

There has been a good deal of talk in recent years, about a new party and the independent voter has been encouraged to believe that he represents about all there is that is pure in politics, and that if his forces were massed, the aggregation would include the best men from all parties, and the result would be a non-partisan party of high moral tone and character.

But this is an old question which has been threshed out so many times with the same results, that the fact was long since established that two and only two great political parties will continue to occupy the platform.

It is well for the country that these two great parties should be evenly divided in strength, and this was the case until democracy was demoralized by Bryanism.

During the past 12 years the republican party has practically had no opposition, and it is not surprising that some abuses of power have come to the surface, which would have been held in check had the democratic party been in position to influence public sentiment.

Bryan has certainly had his day and the sooner the democratic party recognizes this fact the better for the organization. The great army of voters who have been training with him as democrats, and will continue to be for time to come. It remains for conservative leaders to come to the front and reorganize these forces under the leadership of some man who represents old-time democracy.

CONFIDENCE RESTORED

When the fact is considered that 90 per cent of the world's capital is confidence the importance of this wonderful asset is recognized. Without it, money and bumper crops are handicapped, as has been fully demonstrated ed during the past 12 months.

The policy of a nation and the management of its affairs has everything to do with confidence, both at home and abroad, and so when a national campaign is on, the disposition is to wait for results. With plenty of money in the banks, and all sorts of resources, this nation has been waiting for a number of months to see whether republicanism would continue to control its destinies, or whether Bryanism with all its uncertainties, would be in the ascendency.

When it was known that Taft was elected, the life blood of confidence commenced to flow back, and today every artery is quickened and every avenue inspired with activity because of this wholesome current.

American securities are again in demand in the world's markets, and American railroads will soon be in position to command the money for which they have waited and suffered.

President-elect Taft said at a dinner in Cincinnati, Wednesday night: "Every businessman who is obeying the law may expect to have all the energy in his possession, every enterprise which is within the statutes may proceed without fear of interference from the administration, when acting legally, but all interests within the jurisdiction of the federal government may expect a right enforcement of the laws against dishonest methods."

This was the keynote of a speech delivered to the businessmen of his home city, and it rings so true that every law-respecting citizen will endorse it.

The Roosevelt policies are one thing; but the Roosevelt methods are another. Taft endorses the former, but his methods will be so different that they will prove a helpful, and not a disturbing element.

There will be more trial by court, and less verities rendered by the court of public opinion. The revision of the tariff will be so wisely handled that abuses will be corrected, while the interests of American industries and labor will be conserved.

With greenbacks in the till, and confidence in the atmosphere of the nation will go forward with rapid stride and a merry Christmas will herald an era of new prosperity which should continue for many years to come.

Governor Cummins of Iowa appears to me about the only new radical slated for a place in the senate, but the old democratic contingency is still dependable.

The socialist party expected to capture 1,000,000 votes and then swallow democracy in 1912, but only half the number was mustered, and the dietary will need revising.

"Mark Henry" Watterson, and several other patriots, are saved from humiliation by the good sense of the American people.

The Balkans are about ready for another outbreak or have they decided to wait until spring for their warlike preparations?

King Football now has the stage center that the political situation has been cleared.

The time for the oyster has appeared and oysters are disappearing.

Of the 25,000 socialist votes cast in Wisconsin, 15,000 were registered in Milwaukee. The state at large is to be congratulated.

Heard's Independence Party did its work and William Jennings Bryan can thank his friend, William Randolph Hearst, for paying up an old score.

Now they say that Charley Murphy is to be despoiled of his Chiefdom of Tammany. Poor Charley, and "such a young man too."

One little town of 1,100 people in Oklahoma has four banks. The guarantee law is a great business tonic.

Pat McCarren seemed to be fairly well posted on the Tammany district, early in the season.

William Street of Chicago, formerly of Janesville, also ran.

The solid north shows evidence of weakness around the borders.

Governor Hughes is in line for succession.

Gymnastic Burglars.

A school for burglars has been discovered by the police at Toulouse, France, and 51 burglars and "professionals" have been arrested.

Classes were held there every day, in which the burglars practiced gymnastics, and were taught the various details of their interesting profession by experts, who drew comfortable salaries.

All the members of the school are well known to the police, for one of the necessities of membership was a proof that the would-be member had committed at least five burglaries successfully, and had lived by his profession for at least three years.

Vagaries of the Plumb Line.

One of the curious things that men of science have discovered in their innumerable efforts to measure and map the earth with the least possible error, is the fact that there are places where the direction of a plumb line is not vertical. Irregularities of density in the crust of the globe may produce this phenomenon.

A remarkable instance has been found in the island of Porto Rico, where the deviation from the vertical is so great that, in mapping the island, the northern and southern coast lines, as shown on the older maps, had each to be moved inward half a mile.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

Copyright, 1908, by Edwin A. Nye.

THE DEVIL.

The stage has a new devil. He is popular and bows and leers to standing room only.

Nobody knows how the real Satan looks. He appeared on that day when the sons of God gathered, "and Satan came also," but there is no description of his shape.

When he was given power to afflict poor old Job and when he appeared to tempt the Son of God he did not disclose himself physically, so far as we know.

There is the suspicion that the "real for sure" devil is too smart to manifest himself bodily.

Many have tried to picture Satan. Each picture is the artist's point of view. Milton gives him form and shape. But his is a very human devil. He suffers like a man. "Which way I turn I turn a hell—MYSELF AM HELL," wails this poor Satan.

Goethe's creature, Mephistopheles, is a man of the world, gentle enough and never so repulsive as to defeat his fell purposes. Though he keeps horns and tail well hidden, he is just as cruel as Milton's Satan.

Oh, there is a devil, all right! And worse than that!

THERE IS A MYRIAD OF DEVILS.

The spirit of evil is in the world along with the spirit of good. These spirits manifest themselves in human flesh, men and women. (Can you fancy a feminine devil?) There are a plenty of both sexes—little devils, incarnated evil—who go about, not like a roaring lion, seeking whom they may devour.

Indeed, to tell the whole truth about it, THERE IS A LITTLE DEVIL IN YOU! He—or she—may be a wee, tiny devil, but he is there just the same. And in me. And in all of us.

When the spirit of evil works through you and me and all of us, that is the big devil of all, using you and me and all of us as instruments of his evil design.

Mask this big Satan as you may, no stage presentation can ever idealize him as anything but vile nor conceal his wicked and awful character.

The Bible says he is now chained. BUT THE CHAIN IS A LONG ONE! Keep away from him or—he'll git ye!

don't watch out!

What?

A woman whose husband sometimes feels because she spends much of her time thinking and talking about clothes sends word that she wonders what 75 per cent of the men would have to talk or think about if there were no such thing as baseball.

Strange Case.

One of the New York hospitals has a patient—a young athlete—who has normal vision when lying at full length, but is blind as a bat when he sits up or stands on his feet. This has been his state for six months or so. The hurt to the eyes that brought it on was received in a game of basketball. The specialists who are trying to remedy the mischief done to his eyes at that time employ a new X-ray process. "This consists," explains a New York paper, "of periodic flashes of the rays—of great intensity—against the retina, instead of the older method of a steady application of the rays for a considerable period of time."

Advice to a Sweet Singer.

"My heart beats but for you," sings an eastern bardess. If she wishes to avoid trouble because of heart failure we would urgently advise her not to let him persuade her to become his for life.

ORGANIZE SCHOOL SUNDAY AT THREE

Union Sunday School Will Have First Meeting in the Howard Chapel Then.

The Howard Mission Sunday school on the corner of Eastern avenue and Jackson street will be formally opened next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The school will be on the Union plan, including all denominations. So everyone can become a member. An invitation is extended to all of the boys and girls and also parents, young men and ladies to be on hand and give the new enterprise a good send-off. C. H. Howard has made it possible to meet for Bible study and singing by his generosity. The chapel in La Prairie, where for several years a flourishing Sunday school has been in progress, is also a monument to his kindly thought for children. Joseph T. Wright, the pioneer in Sunday school work in Rock county, will add in the organization.

Van Pool, have been instrumental in getting together material and it will prove very interesting reading, and will be preserved and valued by those who secure a copy.

OBITUARY.

Had Right to Sell Apples; Hanley Bros. filed a complaint with the police this afternoon against L. Fehlbeg of Milwaukee, who was disposing of a carload of apples to the grocery stores and delivering them in wagon lots. City Attorney Maxfield decided that the peddlers' license ordinance did not apply to a case of this kind where there was no effort to sell wares from door to door and Mr. Fehlbeg was allowed to go his way in peace.

TAFT'S VOTE NOW FIGURED AS 319

MARYLAND ELECTORS PROBABLY WILL BE DIVIDED.

MISSOURI IS REPUBLICAN

G. O. P. Majority in Congress Will Be 41—Bryan Sends Telegram of Congratulation to the Winner.

New York, Nov. 6.—The membership of the electoral college which will choose the next president of the United States remained in dispute when the official returns in Maryland abandoned their task for the night. According to the best information obtainable, the proportionate numbers of Republican and Democratic electors will be determined by a division of Maryland's eight votes.

Half of the city of Baltimore and two of the 23 counties outside of the capital are still to be counted, but there is a strong indication that the state's vote will be split. In any event, the margin of victory will be so small that the state was claimed by the leaders of both parties.

Though the splitting of a state's electoral vote is unusual, it will be recalled that in 1904 Maryland elected one Republican and seven Democratic electors.

Missouri Apparently Taft's. Missouri appears to be safely for Taft, to whom the latest returns give a plurality of 300, with the prospect that the few final districts will double or triple these figures.

Conceding Missouri to Taft and leaving Maryland to be split between him and Bryan, the figures show 319 Republican electors assured and 150 Democratic.

Latest congressional returns indicate that the next congress will be composed of 216 Republicans and 175 Democrats, a majority for the Republicans of 41.

Bryan Congratulates Taft. Cincinnati, Nov. 6.—"Please accept congratulations and best wishes for the success of your administration."

"I thank you sincerely for your cordial and courteous telegram of congratulation and good wishes."

These messages were Thursday, exchanged between Lincoln, Neb., and Cincinnati. The message from Mr. Bryan came while Judge Taft was addressing the general conference of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church. He received the message on his return to his residence and answered it at once.

Majority in Congress. Chicago, Nov. 6.—The Republican party will, according to present returns from all congressional districts in the United States, control the next national house of representatives by a majority of 41. The figures, so far received, show the election of 216 Republicans and 175 Democrats, a gain for the latter party of nine. The majorities in several districts are reported as extremely close, and it is possible that in a few instances the official count may change the figures given above.

Bryan Admits His Defeat. Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 6.—William J. Bryan Thursday issued the following statement:

"The election has gone against us by a decisive majority. The returns are not all in, and it is impossible at the present time to analyze them or to say what causes contributed most to the Republican victory. We made our fight upon a platform which embodied what we believed to be good for the American people, but it is for the people themselves to decide what laws they desire and what method of government they prefer.

Still Retains Faith. "I have faith that the public which we asked for will yet commend itself to the American people; that the election of senators by the people will be secured; that the inequities of the trust will arouse an opposition that will result in the elimination of the principle of private monopoly. I am confident that the people will see the necessity for the labor legislation and the tariff reduction which our platform demanded.

Sees Educational Result. "I am confident, too, that the educational work done in this campaign will result in securing greater protection to bank depositors. The above are the most prominent reforms for which we labored, and I believe that these reforms will yet come, together with more effective regulation of railroads and independence for the Philippines.

"I desire to commend the work of our national committee. I am entirely satisfied with Mr. Mack as the chairman."

Mills to Run on Full Time. New York, Nov. 6.—Notre was posted Thursday in the cotton mills of the James Chadwick & Brother Company, Ltd., of Jersey City, N. J., that beginning Saturday, the mills would resume operation on a full-time schedule. The mills, which furnish employment for 200 hands, have been on half-time since April.

Two Hundred Chinese Drown. Amoy, Nov. 6.—A small steamer carrying 600 passengers from Amoy to Tientsin, a few miles distant, sank Thursday evening. Two hundred of the passengers were drowned. Chinese junkies rescued the others.

SQUADRON LEAVES AMOY

CHINESE GIVE BATTLESHIPS A BIG SEND-OFF.

Lavish Entertainment of Americans
Has Cost the Government More Than $1,000,000.

Amoy, Nov. 6.—The second squadron of the American battleship fleet, which, under the command of Rear Admiral Emory, has been in Amoy since October 30 as the guest of the government of China, brought its visit to a close Thursday when it steamed out of the harbor bound for Olongapo, to join the first squadron under Admiral Sperry. The distance to Olongapo is about 700 miles, and the vessels should reach there early on the morning of November 8.

The departing warships were given a demonstration in marked contrast to the apathy which was noticeable on their arrival. The hills behind the beach were black with people who had assembled to view the spectacle, and the firing of crackers continued for one hour.

The cost of the reception has exceeded $1,000,000. The Chinese government has been lavish in its gifts to the American officers and men.

The final official function on shore, the entertainment afforded by the Chinese government, was declared by the Americans to have been, with the exception of Australia, second to none. The Chinese are delighted with the visit, and they comment especially upon the excellent deportment of the American sailors.

Peking, Nov. 6.—Though the American squadron has left Amoy, the matter of its presence at the southern port has not been more than mentioned in Peking. Officials are silent and the impression of general humiliation at the fact that only a squadron came, instead of a whole fleet, cannot be concealed. The meagerness of the reply of the foreign board to Admiral Sperry's message of congratulation on the birthday of the dowager empress also has attracted attention, and it is clear that the throne has been indifferent to the whole affair.

FRANCE AND GERMANY TO AGREE
Expect to Reach Understanding on the Casablanca Incident.

Paris, Nov. 6.—The belief is held here that France and Germany will speedily come to an understanding on the questions which have arisen over the arrest of German deserters by the French authorities at Casablanca, on which occasion, Germany charges, an official of the German consulate at that city was attacked.

Germany during the early part of October made representations to the French government on what is now known as "the Casablanca incident," and demanded that France make expression of regret for the occurrence. As the matter has been pushed to the front in the last few days, France transmitted to Germany a proposition which she felt could be accepted with good grace by both countries. Advice received from Berlin indicates that Chancellor von Bethov looks favorably on the proposition and there seems to be little doubt now that an amicable agreement will soon be reached.

FREIGHT STEAMER IS SUNK.
Strikes Rock in East River and Goes to Bottom.

New York, Nov. 6.—The freight steamer H. M. Whitney of the Metropolitan Steamship line was sunk Thursday night in the East river while on her way to Boston. The vessel, valued at $500,000, is a total loss and it is not believed that any of her cargo, valued at $300,000, can be recovered.

The steamer, in trying to avoid collision with a tow, collided with Steep Rock. A great hole was made below the water line. The thrush of water was so rapid that in less than a minute the deck was put out and nine stokers who were in the engine room had to flee for their lives. An effort was made to beach the steamer, but this plan had to be abandoned. The crew escaped in their life boats. As they were rowing away the freighter went down in ten fathoms of water.

Treasure Ship Sails for Manila. San Francisco, Nov. 6.—The United States army transport Shoridan sailed Thursday for Manila via Honolulu and Guam with 719 casual troops, 100 marines from Mare Island, 155 cabin passengers, Philippine currency valued at $6,000,000, and a full cargo of supplies, including a large consignment of turkeys, chickens and delicacies for Christmas.

WHY UMBRELLA WAS RETURNED.

Something of a Joke on the Late
Henry Ward Beecher.

Among the financial friends of the great preacher was one old broker in New York—an aggressive Unitarian, which sect he often said bore "the trade mark of honesty." One day he met Mr. Beecher hurrying toward Wall street ferry to avoid the downpour of a sudden rainstorm.

"Take my umbrella," said the broker. "I don't need it; the coming bus takes me to my door."

At the ferry Mr. Beecher met a lady, a prominent church worker of a sister church, who, having no umbrella, was lamenting her inability to reach her car safely. The urbane preacher forced the umbrella upon her as he said: "I will be out your way to-morrow and will call and get it."

Two hours later as Mr. Beecher was sitting in the old arm chair in his study the doorbell rang and when he responded to the call a boy hurriedly presented him with an umbrella, together with an unsealed note, which read:

"Dear Mr. Beecher—My husband, Mr. M., demands that I return the umbrella you so kindly loaned me at once, and join him in saying that under the circumstances the pleasure of an anticipated call is unregretted. Upon opening the umbrella you will become more fully advised of our united action."

The great expounder of truth and honesty was horrified when upon opening the umbrella he discovered a pasted slip upon which was written in a bold round hand: "Stolen by some Presbyterian thief!"

TUNES FAIL TO KILL; MAY BUY.

Aged Flute Player Makes Sure by Trying Score of Pieces.

A little old man entered a large music shop and asked the assistant to show him a book of flute music.

"Here, sir, is a very fine selection," said the assistant, "and cheap at half a dollar, seeing that it contains no fewer than 50 airs."

The old man took the book, opened it, and laid it on a shelf. Then he took his flute out of his coat pocket, screwed it together and began to play softly the first tune in the book.

When he had finished the first tune he turned the page and played the second. Then he played the third. An hour later he was still playing. The assistant thought it was time to hurry him up a bit.

"Well, sir," he said, "do you think the book will suit you?" "I like these so far very much, thank you," said the old man, putting his instrument to his lips again, "but I have only played half the tunes so far!"

The Beam and the Mole.

Little Dick, the village "bad boy," was wading through a shallow swamp catching frogs with a small landing-net. It was slow work, for the frogs were nimble and exceedingly shy, but whenever he succeeded in capturing one he made sure that it did not get away by putting it in a tin bucket that had a perforated lid. He had just caught a fine specimen and transferred it to his bucket, when a young lady, who was out for a walk, happened along.

"Little boy," she said, "don't you know it's very cruel to catch those poor little froggies?"

Dick straightened up and looked at her. She wore a gorgeous "erection" on her head, and something in his trimmings attracted his attention.

"I want 'em to wear on my hat," he said.—Youth's Companion.

Marriage of Widows in India.

We are glad to note the number of widow marriages increasing every year. Following on the heels of one in high life in Calcutta, there have been lately three such marriages in different parts of the country. This is a noteworthy record, which should cause the social reformer to take heart for the ultimate success of his work. The agitation that has been kept up for years by the social conference has been successful, if only in impressing all classes of the Hindu community with the necessity of widow marriage. It is, however, well known that those who still take exception to it and offer sentimental objections have no widowed daughters at home, and consequently have no means to judge their sad condition.—Indian Mirror.

Permanent Rose Scent.

A word about the making of rose paste. Steep the petals in water until they are soft enough to be macerated easily. Mix in a few drops of attar of rose and a little gum.

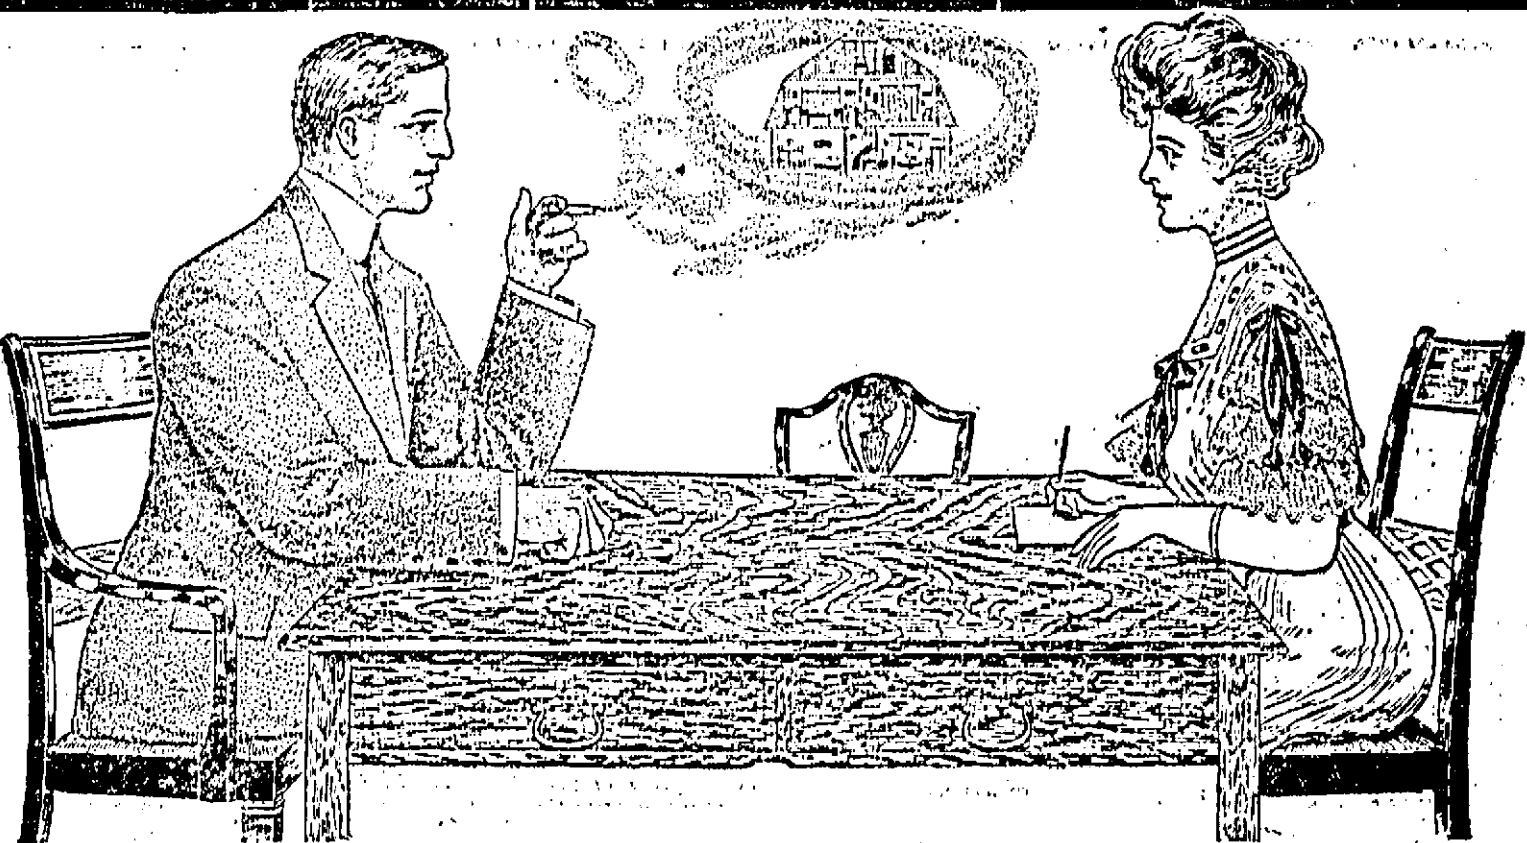

This is a very suitable mixture to inclose in amulets or charms, for it is sweet but not sticky, and it keeps its sweetness, and, if run into a little fancy mold while soft and allowed to set and harden there, when turned out it will make an ornamental as well as an effective perfume for a box of handkerchiefs or some of our pet possessions.—Girl's Ideal.

Coal Cheapest "a la Carte."

An English town boasts the possession of a coal vendor who knows some French. He is not sure of it, but his pride in it is prodigious. Little Gallic phrases keep slipping into his casual speech, and they light it with a quaint charm. As, for instance, when he was asked his price for coal by a woman customer. "Well, madam," he replied, "if you take it 'a la carte' it's 20 shillings the ton, but if you take it 'en-bloc' it's a shilling extra for the bags."

"BOOMERANG" BALL

Returns to the Thrower, After Manoeuvring of the Boomerang.

Everybody is more or less familiar with the boomerang, that peculiar implement used by numerous wild tribes of Australia and Asia, consisting of a thin, slightly bent piece of wood, rarely more than two feet in length. It can be made to fly in a complete curve and return, striking the ground close to the thrower. A New Jersey man has applied this principle to the boomerang ball—or return ball—as he calls it—which is shown here. The ball with which this ball can be thrown can be readily imagined. It might even be employed in our national game of baseball, overthrowing the new famous spit ball. The greatest of dangers would be unable to locate it, as it would be an easy matter for the pitcher to have it curve the batter's body and return to his hands, dispensing entirely with the services of a catcher. It will at least make a very interesting toy for the youngsters.

TREATMENT OF GRAIN

Washes and Dries Grain, Eventually Eliminating All Moisture.

It would almost be impossible to even approximate the amounts of money lost yearly on grain which has become moldy, damp, etc., and consequently unsalable. Attempts have been made to overcome this tendency of grain to mold, and not by designing buildings impervious to moisture and dampness, in which to store the grain until wanted. Even with this protection, dampness still attacks the grain. More recently, grain merchants are attacking the problem from an entirely different standpoint. They are now working on the idea of thoroughly drying the grain before it is stored in the grain elevators, the theory being that the grain contains too much moisture when received from the field. Inventions have accordingly been designed for drying the grain, many of which are now in use. The latest apparatus of this nature patented is shown here. This machine consists of a tank containing a revolving disk, with a drum mounted to rotate above the tank and through the disk. The grain is automatically delivered to the drum, heated to the fluid and afterwards ejected into a chute. In addition there is a scraper which scrapes the grain after being washed. The fluid contains ingredients which eventually cause it to evaporate, at the same time carrying away all moisture in the grain.

WIPES THE CARPETS

Attachment for Carpet Sweeper for Easily Wiping Carpets.

An implement for household use recently invented is an improved attachment for sweepers for conveniently cleaning carpets after being swept. It is designed for wiping over the surface of the carpet after it has been brushed. After the carpet has been swept and the accumulated dust and dirt taken up, the brush is removed from the sweeper and a wiper substituted, the latter being so constructed as to be readily inserted in its place. The wiper consists of a roller carrying a mat of cloth which has been dampened. As the wiper travels over the carpet it gathers up all the dust which remains after sweeping. This wiping, which is very easily accomplished by the sweepers, would be impossible by hand. The wiping with the damp cloth also brightens the colors of the carpet and considerably improves their appearance.

A recently developed method for determining hardness is that of Albert P. Shore, who has devised an instrument, called the sclerometer, to measure the energy of rebound of a minute hammer striking the specimen with sufficient force to cause a permanent displacement of metal. The instrument does not measure elasticity, since the fluid of elasticity has been exceeded. What the sclerometer does measure, it is claimed, is the energy of resistance at the moment of exceeding the elastic limit. When a test abrasion metal the instantaneous resistance in abrasion is practically divorced from tenacity, and the action of the sclerometer hammer is represented to be just this. Time is not a factor, as the fluid is instantaneous. The amount of the rebound, it is argued, represents the resistance when permanent deformation takes place.

One of the most ingenious pieces of machinery of modern invention is the saw sharpener, which not only rapidly and accurately sharpens circular saws of varying diameters and inch, but does it automatically. The saw to be ground is keyed in a horizontal shaft, which is slowly revolved, bringing each tooth in turn under the emery wheel. This emery wheel has two motions; one a circular motion and the other a sliding motion, which enables the grinder to cut the edge of the tooth and then the other. This is accomplished by a most ingenious system of levers and cams. One of these levers has a ratchet-like, by means of which may be desired which can be given the teeth. The emery wheel can be raised or lowered to suit the diameter of the saw. The operation of this device is so simple that a saw can be keyed to the shaft, adjusted, and the machine started in a remarkably short time and when once in operation no attention whatever is necessary.

In order to fully ascertain the efficiency of a new piece of street cleaning apparatus, being experimented with in New York, the street cleaning department conducted a number of bacteriological tests on streets before and after the passage of the machine. The results were made up in an ordinary post dish, three inches in diameter, which was placed on a small stand in the center of the street and raised two feet above the pavement. On top of the stand was an open galvanized iron box, about 15 inches square and four inches deep. In some cases the dish was placed on top of the inverted box, and in others placed beneath the inverted box, and in some others placed beside the box when the open side is up. The stand was made of small galvanized iron, extended out from a small square block of wood in the center so that when the box is inverted and the dish placed beneath it, it has access to all sides, the box resting on the extended arms. Each plate is exposed for 15 minutes, and then allowed to stand at room temperature for 24 hours, and then exposed to bacteria to develop. The colonies of bacteria of sufficient size to be counted were out of the dish, in one case exposed before cleaning the number of colonies was 200, while on the plate exposed afterwards only 25 were found.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD STATION FROM THE REAR, SHOWING THE EIGHTH AVENUE VIADUCT.

WORLD'S GREATEST RAILWAY TERMINAL NEARING COMPLETION.

For four or five years New Yorkers have been looking at a great, yawning hole in the ground, in the very heart of Manhattan Island, and have been wondering when it would be filled up. Now, at last, the construction of a giant railway station, to fill the big hole, is well under way, and the metropolis breathes a sigh of relief. In a year and a half more, perhaps, trains will be entering the station through tunnels under the Hudson river and the East river, from New Jersey on the one side and from Long Island on the other. A long-cherished ambition of the Pennsylvania railroad will have been accomplished.

When the scheme was first formed, and many times afterwards, the public Madison, Wis.—The outlook on the horizon for 1908 is not overly bright. This year there are many difficulties to contend with, in addition to the tendency of the "powers that be" to emaculate, if not wholly annihilate, the more vigorous sports, and Wisconsin has a hard fight on her hands this fall to make a showing. For two years, now, I have been fighting odds against a faculty and board of regents largely indifferent or hostile to athletics. The results of the fight are beginning to show. This year we played great games in T. A. Barry as football coach.

The university authorities have restricted us to five games. This would have been considered a heavy schedule, with Indiana coming so early in the season, and Minnesota and Chicago as the last two games, even last spring when we expected that all of the team who did not graduate would be eligible to play this year. We have lost by graduation six of our best men, and a number of the remaining players have a single condition to work off in their studies which, if they do not pass the special examination, will bar them from the gridiron, according to the conference regulation regarding back work. If many of the men are kept out of the game by scholastic ineligibility, it is doubtful if we can make a show which will be at all satisfactory. The freshmen last year was unusually light, even for freshmen, and it will be a very difficult matter to find men heavy enough to take a place in the varsity line. While the new game has made a place of small men which was not theirs before, still the team which does not average up to 180 pounds on the line is liable to be in considerable difficulty.

Getting His Own Back.

An ironworker, having had the worst of an argument with a friend, decided to get even with him. Waiting, therefore, until his enemy had retired to rest one night, he approached his street door, and knocked loudly in order to wake him. Opening the bedroom window, the other hurriedly inquired what the noise was all about. "Why," replied the outside one, "one of your windows is wide open." "Which one?" "Why, the one you have your head through," chuckled the other, as he went away satisfied with the success of his plot.—Illustrated Bits.

Skating or Swimming.

Some one once asked "Tim" Sullivan of New York for information as to the prospects of a politician who was popularly supposed to be "on the ragged edge." "Well," said Sullivan, "he seems to think he's getting on all right; but there are other who entertain a different opinion. The situation reminds me of the story of the old woman up in Malaga. Being asked as to the whereabouts of her husband, she replied: "If the ice is as thick as Jim thinks it is, he is skating; if it is as thick as I think it is, he is swimming."—Sunday Magazine.

Simple Home Remedy.

Often it is inconvenient to get a doctor for a cut or abrasion where there might be danger of blood poisoning. In such cases try this simple home remedy: After the wound is thoroughly washed with some antiseptic solution and the poison removed the cut will often heal nicely if cloths wet in sweet oil are kept on the place until the flesh has perfectly healed. One young woman, who this last summer tore her hand badly on a barbed-wire fence, used nothing else on it but these sweet-oil cloths, kept renewed whenever they grew dry, and has not even a scar to show for her injury.

wood work, which is, of course, quite temporary, cost about $10,000. It had to be built, though, to carry out the architects' plans for the skylight roof of the waiting room. This waiting room will make a record in the number of passengers accommodated and in the convenience of exits and entrances. It will have a length of 320 feet and a width of 110 feet. The roof, 150 feet above the floor, will rise far above the main roof of the building. Experts have estimated that this terminal will be used by 100,000,000 passengers a year—though its rated capacity is still greater. The track

AT THE PLAY HOUSES

"The Mummy and the Humming Bird," a play which has stood the test for many seasons and has met with the greatest success everywhere, will be presented at the Myers theatre Monday evening, Nov. 9.

Lord Lumley, the "Mummy," shows us a clean, honorable English lord, "through a grievous fault," not knowing the dissipation of women, is neglectful of his wife.

All through the "comedy humane," Lord Lumley keeps his balance—the balance of a keen, straightforward man of the world, capable of the generosity that only breadth of intellect, combined with warmth of heart, can be capable of.

When the crisis comes in Lord Lumley's domestic affairs and he must meet it without dishonor to his wife or himself, his strength of character triumphs over disaster and his big English heart takes in the poor young wife.

W. A. Whittecar, one of the foremost leading men on the American stage, will play the part he originally had, Lord Lumley. He will be surrounded by a company of players who are all well-known artists. This attraction is one of the finest that will be seen here this season.

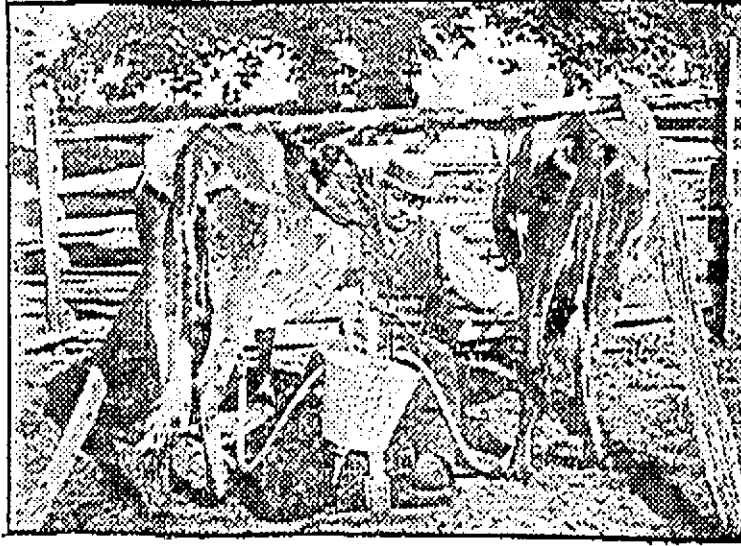

The dainty Minnie Dupree in "The Shuberts" superb novelty concert, "The Road to Yesterday," is the attraction announced at the Myers theatre Saturday, Nov. 7. Miss Dupree plays the role of a little American girl who dreams she is living in the days of "good Queen Bess." Her personal

"The Road to Yesterday" will be one of the best attractions seen here this season.

A Song of Success.
"That," cried the boss of the pie trust as he finished fixing the new schedule of raised prices, "They can say what they like of me as a trust magnate and I will not deny it, for I am a pie into him."

MILKING BY MACHINERY.

An important new class of time and labor-saving machinery has lately been invented to aid the American farmers. These novelties are nothing less than machines for milking cows automatically by means of compressed air or electricity. Already the novelties have been introduced in a number of large dairy farms and no important is the subject considered.

Some Consolation.

that the United States department of agriculture has undertaken a series of tests and experiments with the purpose of finding out which are the best of the now-fangled machines. For farmers who have only a few cows there has been devised a foot power milker by means of which two cows can be milked simultaneously in half the time it formerly required to milk one cow.

Three drivers of the engine went off the track when the rail broke in two and the rear end of the freight train blocked the main line. The engine on the passenger train had to leave its train outside the city and switch the freight cars off the track.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR POULTRY EXHIBITION

Meeting of Directors of Poultry Association Was Held Last Evening.

Last evening a meeting of the directors of the Southern Wisconsin Poultry association of Janesville, was held to talk over plans of the coming exhibition to be held in the rink building for the first part of next January. Work on the premium list and the discussion of various plans for the show occupied the meeting.

L. L. Littlefield, treasurer of the Southern Wisconsin Poultry association of Janesville, was present. Mr. Littlefield was very enthusiastic over the coming exhibition and complimented the local association upon the work they were doing. The prizes offered, the place where the show will be held and the enthusiasm of the association would all aid in making the result a big success, said Mr. Littlefield.

Pimples, Rash, Eruptions, Etc., Quickly Eradicated by New Skin Remedy.

Since its discovery one year ago, podium, the new skin remedy, has in its extraordinary accomplishments, exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the eminent specialist who gave it to the world. It has cured thousands of cases of eczema and eradicated facial and other disfigurements of years' standing. The terrible itching attending eczema is stopped with the first application, giving proof of its curative properties at the very outset.

In less serious skin affections, such as pimples, rash, herpes, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., results show after an overnight application, only a small quantity being required to effect a cure. Those who use podium for these minor skin troubles can now avail themselves of the special 50-cent package, recently adopted to meet such needs. Both the 50-cent package and the regular $2 for may now be obtained in Janesville at Hight Street's, the Smith Drug Co., People's Drug Co., and other leading drug stores.

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott.

November 8, 1908.
David Griefs for Absalom, II Sam. 18.
Golden Text: A foolish son is a grief to his father, Prov. 17:21.
Verses 1-2—Is there any hope for success in the ordinary affairs of life, as well as in war, without system and thorough organization?
How much of the success of this country depends upon our national leaders?
Verses 3-4—Should a general in war, or a leader in any cause, personally expose himself in the danger line?
If a man courts martyrdom for the truth, is it either right or in the interest of the truth?
Was David right in wanting to personally conduct this war, or were the leaders right in persuading him not to do so?
Verses 5-6—Was it right and according to the mind of God, for David to command that no harm be done to such an arch traitor as Absalom?
When people sympathize with criminals and try to shield them from justice, is it a manly sympathy or true Christian love?
Verses 6-8—[In war, upon the whole, been a blessing or a curse to mankind?
Is war ever right, except as a necessary means for obtaining peace?
Was David to be praised or blamed for this war?
Describe the horrors of this war, and compare them with the unspeakable horrors of the possible wars of the future, and then say of future wars will, or will not, brand their authors as worse criminals than the traitors in Absalom?
Verses 9-10—Was it accidental or providential for Absalom to be caught by the head in his oak tree?
Are there any accidents in the life of a true Christian?
Is there any reasonable expectation that the wicked will not, finally, bring destruction upon themselves?
Verses 10-15—What can you say for or against the reasoning of this man, who found Absalom hanging on the tree and refused to kill him?
As between our souls and God, should we obey, or disobey, those in authority, when we know their commands are against the will of God, as in the present case?
Should we obey God, rather than man, even at the risk of our lives?
Is it nobler, or ignoble, to let personal profit influence us in matters of right and wrong?
Verses 14-17—Notwithstanding the command of the king, to the contrary, was Jacob right in slaying Absalom?
When the leader in a bad cause is destroyed, does it generally stop the rebellion, as in this case?
Is it possible for an ignoble life to have a noble ending, or a noble life to have an ignoble ending? What is the record of history?
Verses 18-20—Should a truly good man ever be concerned as to what posterity will say of him, or personally cause any monument to be erected to his memory?
Barring exceptions, is it generally a disgrace, or otherwise, for a man to die having no children?
What is generally the end of a self-centered, proud life?
Verses 21-22—Absalom was a priest; should priests or preachers take any active part in political affairs?
In carrying important tidings, either good or bad, to our friends, what rules should govern us? Is it wise to tell the whole blunt truth at once?
Did Absalom, the young priest tell the truth, and was he to be blamed or praised?
If a preacher or a priest defends a creed which he knows to be untrue, can his word be trusted in other matters? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)
Verses 23-24—What can you say, for or against, the pathetic grief of this heart-broken father, at the death of his worse than worthless son?

TAFT CARRIED ROCK
BY PLURALITY OF 2

Result of Vote in Town of Rock Was a Surprise as Democratic Plurality Was Expected.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Afton, Nov. 5.—Probably every voter in the town of Rock was surprised last Tuesday evening, when it was found that William Howard Taft had carried the town by a plurality of two votes. Prior to this the democrats had claimed and the republicans had conceded the town for Bryan by a plurality that would not be below ten and might reach twenty-five. Taft's victory in the town was all the greater therefore because entirely unexpected. The total number of ballots cast was 201 and this was 9 less than the total cast at the town election last spring, when the census question was an issue. The following are the candidates who won out here and the pluralities each received: For president—Taft, 23; governor—Aylward, 6; lieutenant governor—Williams, 1; secretary of state—Frear, 1; treasurer—the attorney general—Gilbert, 1; commissioner of revenue—Baker, 1; member of congress—the state senator—the member of assembly—Whitely, 2; county clerk—Lee, 3; county treasurer—Church, 4; sheriff—Baldwin, 1; clerk of court—Barle, 92; district attorney—Clark, 13; register of deeds—Welrick, 3. From these figures it will be seen that the contest here was a close one, the democrats winning on governor, lieutenant governor, sheriff and district attorney, and being with the republicans on state treasurer, member of congress and state senator. There were 89 straight democratic and 112 straight republican tickets cast and 17 mixed democratic tickets. At the opening of the polls in the morning that republican of the town, Wm. H. Tripp, was accorded the distinction of casting the first ballot and as he did so he remarked that it was his 17th vote for a president of the United States, his initial vote being cast for Henry Clay in 1841. Mr. Tripp still takes an active interest in politics and is an enthusiastic republican.

The initial meeting of the Afton literary society will be held next Tuesday evening at the home of U. G. Walter. Officers will be elected, committees appointed and the work of the society for the coming season will be thoroughly considered. Members are expected to respond to the first roll call with some item of current news, either local, general or foreign. The Ladies Aid society met at Brinkmann hall last Wednesday and sewed for the society. The next meeting will be held with Miss Ella C. Gehling, Wednesday, November 18th, at 19 n. m., with society work for all who may attend.

Everyone had a good time at the Halloween social given by the Ladies Aid society at Brinkmann hall last Friday evening. There was a large number present and the affair was a genuine success financially as well as socially, thus reflecting greatly to the credit of all those having charge of the arrangements.

Received Four More Votes Than Head of the National Ticket on Tuesday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milton, Nov. 6.—[Election day passed quietly and 263 votes were cast in the village, a very full vote. Taft had 129, Bryan 40, Chaffin 20, Debs 1, Gov. Davidson ran only three votes behind Taft and the state and county ticket ran a vote or two better than the Taft electors. The big Moschelenpach banner, swung in the breeze in the park by the Hyvants, did not prove a vote-getter for the Clinton clan, he polling three votes less than Bryan, while Crook was high runner, polling more than Taft two more than Whitely and Whitely. Returns were received in village hall and during the evening the Freeman's band and college male quartet furnished some excellent music during the waits.

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS,
Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers

"I don't know," said the boy in a low voice. "I'd like to."

"Good business!" That will be fine! What you and I need is a good stiff tramp across the moors or a gallop if you like. It's great for mental cobwebs, and my brain is disgracefully unwept. By the way, somebody said that you'd joined the Slowthia club."

"Yes," said the boy listlessly.

"Well, you'll get some lively trout fishing there now. It's only thirty miles from Silverside, you know. You can run over in the motor very easily."

Gerald nodded, sitting silent, his handsome head supported in both hands, his eyes on the floor.

That something was very wrong with him appeared plainly enough, but Selwyn, touched to the heart and miserably apprehensive, dared not question him unasked.

And so they sat there for awhile, Selwyn making what conversation he could, and at length Gerald turned and dragged himself across the sofa, dropping his head back on the disordered pillows.

"Go on," he said. "I'm listening."

So Selwyn continued his pleasant, inconsequential observations, and Gerald lay with closed eyes quite motionless until, watching him, Selwyn saw his hand was trembling where it lay clenched beside him. And presently the boy turned his face to the wall.

Toward midnight Selwyn rose quietly, removed his unlighted pipe from between his teeth, knocked the ashes from it and pocketed it. Then he walked to the bed and seated himself on the edge.

"What's the trouble, old man?" he asked softly.

There was no answer. He placed his hand over Gerald's. The boy's hand lay inert, then quivered and closed on Selwyn's convulsively.

"That's right," said the elder man; "that's what I'm here for—to stand by when you hold signals. Go on."

The boy shook his head and buried it deeper in the pillow.

"And as that?" commented Selwyn quietly. "Well, what of it? I'm standing by. I tell you. That's right!"—as Gerald broke down, his body quivering under the spasm of soundless grief—"that's the safety valve working. Good business. Take your time."

It took a long time, and Selwyn sat silent and motionless, his whole arm numb from his position and Gerald's crushing grasp. And at last, seeing that was the moment to speak, he said:

"Now let's fix up this matter, Gerald. Come on!"

"Good heavens! If how can it be fixed?"

"I'll tell you when you tell me. It's a money difficulty, I suppose, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"Carls?"

"Oh, partly."

"Oh, a note? Case of honor? Where is this I. O. U. that you gave?"

"It's worse than that. The—the note is paid. Good God! I can't tell you!"

"You must. That's why I'm here, Gerald."

"Well, then, I—I drew a check—knowing that I had no funds. If it—if they return it marked—"

"I see. What are the figures?"

The boy shivered then out. Selwyn's grave face grew graver still.

"That is bad," he said slowly. "Very bad. Have you—but of course you couldn't have seen Austin?"

"I'd kill myself first!" said Gerald fiercely.

"No, you wouldn't do that. You're not that kind. Keep perfectly cool, Gerald, because it is going to be fixed. The method only remains to be decided upon."

"I can't take your money!" stammered the boy. "I can't take a cent from you after what I've said—the honesty things I've said."

"It isn't the things you say to me, Gerald, that matter. Let me think a bit, and don't worry. Just lie quietly and understand that I'll do the worrying. And while I'm amusing myself with a little quiet reflection as to ways and means just take your own bearings from this reef and set a true course once more, Gerald. That is all the reassurance, all the criticism, you are going to get from me. Deal with yourself and your God in silence."

And in silence and heavy dismay Selwyn confronted the sacrifice he must make to save the honor of the house of Gerald.

It meant more than temporary inconvenience to himself. It meant that he must go into the market and sell securities which were partly his capital and from which came the modest income that enabled him to live as he did.

There was no other way unless he went to Austin. But he dared not do that—dared not think what Austin's action in the matter might be. And he knew that if Gerald were ever driven into hopeless exile, with Austin's knowledge of his disgraceful riddling, the boy's utter ruin must result inevitably.

Yet—yet—how could he afford to do this—unemployed, earning nothing, bereft of his profession, with only the chance in view that his chum might turn out stable enough to be marketable? How could he dare so strip himself? Yet there was no other way. It had to be done, and done at once—the very first thing in the morning, before it became too late.

And at first, in the bitter resentment of the necessity, his impulse was to turn on Gerald and lead him to read conduct by every pledge the boy could give. At least there would be compensation. Yet with the thought came the clear conviction of his futility. The boy had brushed too close to dishonor not to recognize it. And if this was not a lifelong lesson to him no promise forced from him in his dire need and distress, no oath, no pledges, could bind him. No blama, no admonition, no scorn, no contempt, no reproach, could help him to see more clearly the pit of destruction than he could see now.

"You need sleep, Gerald," he said quietly. "Don't worry. I'll see that your check is not dishonored. All you have to see to is yourself. Good night, my boy."

But Gerald could not speak, and so Selwyn left him and walked slowly back to his own room, where he seated himself at his desk, grave, absent eyed, his unlighted pipe between his teeth.

And he sat there until he had bitten clean through the amber mouthpiece, so that the briar bowl fell clattering to the floor. By that time it was full daylight, but Gerald was still asleep. He slept into the afternoon, but that evening, when Selwyn and Lansing came in to persuade him to go with them to Silverside, Gerald was gone.

They waited another day for him. He did not appear. And that night they left for Silverside without him.

Chapter 17

DURING that week end at Silverside Boots behaved like a school lad run wild. With Diana's hand in his, the other children and half a dozen dogs as advanced guard and heavily flanked by the Gerald battalion, he scoured the moorlands from Surf point to the Illthorpe woods, from Wonder head to Sky pond.

Nina, Ellen and Selwyn formed a lagging and lethargic rear guard, though always within signaling distance of Boots and the main body, and when necessary the two ex-army men vied with each other across the uplands to the endless excitement and gratification of the children.

Ellen and Selwyn were standing on one of the treeless hills, a riotous tangle of grasses and wild flowers, looking out to sea across Sky pond. He had a rod, and as he stood he idly switched the empty colored flies backward and forward.

Standing there, fairly swimming in the delicious upper air currents, she looked blissfully across the rolling moors.

"After all," she said, "what more is there than this—earth and sea and sky and sun and a friend to show them to? Because, as I wrote you, the friend is quite necessary in the scheme of things to round out the symmetry of it all. I suppose you're dying to dangle those flies in Brler Water to see whether there are any trout there. Well, there are. Austin stocked it years ago, and he never fishes, so no doubt it's full of fish."

The Brler Water, a cold, deep, lustreless stream, deserved its name. If anybody ever haunted it with hostile designs upon his lily denizens, Austin at least never did. Botted kingfisher, heron, mink and perhaps a furtive small boy with pole and slaker and harpoon worm—these were the only foes the trout might dread. As for a man and a fly rod, they knew him not, nor was there much chance for casting a line, because the water every where flowed under weels, arched thickets of briar and grass and leafy branches encroached above.

"This place is impossible," said Selwyn scornfully. "What is Austin about to let it all grow up and run wild?"

He reeled in his line until only six inches of the gossamer leader remained free. From this dangled a single silver bodied fly, glittering in the wind.

"There's a likely pool hidden under those briars," he said. "I'm going to poke the top of my rod under—this way—"

"Huh!" as a heavy splash sounded from depths unseen and the reel screamed as he struck.

Up and down, under banks and over shallows, rushed the invisible fish, and Selwyn could do nothing for awhile but let him go when he lusted and check and recover when the fish permitted.

Ellen, a spray of green mint between her vivid lips, watched the performance with growing interest, but when at length a big, fat, struggling speckled trout was cautiously but successfully lifted out into the grass she turned her back until the gallant fighter had departed this life under a merciful whack from a stick.

To be continued.

FRENCH DO HONOR TO WILBUR WRIGHT

AMERICAN AEROPLANIST DINED BY THE AERO CLUB.

HE IS GIVEN TWO MEDALS

Many Experts in Aviation Join in Tributes to the Ohioan, Who Accepts Them Very Modestly.

Paris, Nov. 6.—Frenchmen united Thursday evening in honoring Wilbur Wright, the American aviator, whose remarkable achievements during the past few months in this country have placed him in the forefront of the men who have been solving the problem of the air.

Mr. Wright was the guest of honor at the dinner of the Aero club of France, at which M. Jean Barthou, the minister of public works, presided, and the occasion was made more memorable by the presentation to him of the Aero club's gold medal and the special medal of the Academy of Sports.

Experts in Aviation Present.

Among the 200 guests were practically all the experts and scientists interested in aviation. MM. Delagrangue, H. de Saint-Denis, M. Archambault, the Honorable M. de la Motte, noted as a patron of all sports; Count Henri de Vaux, M. Esnault Pelterie, Marquis de Dion, president of the Auto club; Duc Decazes and Gen. Dasties, the military governor of Paris. Henry Farman sent a telegram regretting his inability to be present.

Mr. Wright received a great ovation and after the presentation of the medals was warmly applauded by M. Barthou, who, in a hearty speech of congratulation, said that the French government desired officially to associate itself with the homage done Wilbur and Orville Wright for their marvelous achievements. They have won, he said, through perseverance, pluck and intelligence, and their names should be inscribed in the annals of time.

Mr. Wright's Modest Speech.

Mr. Wright's reply aroused intense enthusiasm. Very modestly, and in simple words, he accepted the honor, not as a personal tribute to himself but as a personal tribute to himself and brother, but to the realization of the dream of flying which had fascinated the minds of men for ages.

"Ten years ago," he said, the world ridiculed the idea. As late as 1901 I told my brother that man would not fly for 50 years; yet two years later we flew."

Mr. Wright spoke feelingly of his splendid reception in France, saying that if he had been a native Frenchman he could not have been shown more consideration. He concluded with a tribute to the wonderful genius of France and declared that future aviation would hold glory enough for all.

Marquis de Dion, Count Henri de Vaux, Baron d'Hastour, de Comstant and several of the other guests paid glowing tributes to the Americans and predicted wonderful things in the future.

Benton, Ill., Nov. 6.—An explosion at the mine of Col. W. P. Bond, three miles west of Benton, at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, wrecked the shaft, and as a result four shot miners were entombed.

So terrific was the explosion that a car and pieces of railroad track were hurled from the bottom to the top of the shaft, more than 600 feet, demolishing a steel tippie.

It is impossible to reach the miners and their fate is unknown. A large force of men is trying to clear away the wreckage, but the work is proceeding slowly. Unless the men are reached soon they will succumb.

The names of the entombed miners are George Reed, Patrick Dalley, Perry Stevens and John Holmes.
